Daily Food

If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 1 John 1, 9.

While I concealed my guilt,

Till it got to festering wound.

And ready pardon found,

If we say we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us. 1 John, 1, 10.

This war has disclosed the fact that in our leading colleges more socialism has been taught than red-blooded Americanism.

So far as you can notice it, President Wilson is not offering any serious objections to amending the conventions. All he wants is for the world to know that they are Wilson amendments.

Rather than attempt to subjugate the Sinn Feiners, the English government has decided to release all the leaders now confined in jail. It might not be improper to state that none of them so confined showed any inclination to go on a hunger strike.

Senator Joe Bailey says he woke up the other morning and found that there was no such thing as a democratic party. The Wilson party had jumped the fence and evicted the old democratic tenants. He refuses to bow the knee and swear allegiance to the Wilson party.

HELP ON THE FARM

Last year the farmers received much help in their work that was furnished through purely patriotic impulses. Men left their stores and their offices and went forth in the fields to harvest the crops, so that nothing should interfere with the increased production of foodstuffs which the world was so badly in need of. This year that incentive will be lacking. The help will likely be needed just the same, but the war is over and patriotic zeal is taking a rest. Not that people have become unpatriotic, but that it takes a high grade of awakened zeal to do what was done last year. People will not make personal sacrifices for the public good unless there is some unusual urge to wake them up. So it becomes more a question of what the farmer can do to secure permanent farm help rather than the spasmodic aid of people not accustomed to the country.

If the farmer is to continue to perform his fundamental essential work in a manner that will increase the output of his land instead of decrease it, he must necessarily have competent help to assist him. This help can only be received and obtained by making the surroundings of the farm congenial to point of general attractiveness with conditions as they exist at the time of the purchase. As they exist at the time when the buyer comes along to buy, the farm should be made attractive, providing the means of easy and economical travel from one farm to another. The general interest of the farmer demands this, while that of the community with the prominent remaining farm help.

Not only unsatisfactory means of transportation for goods improved, and that soon, but living conditions on the farms themselves should be made so attractive that the sons and daughters of the farmer will prefer to remain at home after they grow up, instead of seeking employment in the already congested cities and towns. Some farmers have all the convenience that are found in the best homes anywhere. These are modern in all respects. Most newcomers are surprised and it would be fully conceivable that the farmer as a class will be forced as a self-interested member of self-government to furnish not only his family, but the help he adopts, the very best that he can secure in the way of service labor surviving and the thousand and one conveniences that are today manufactured to make their labor while the life of the farmer and his children.

SPEAKING FOR THE PEOPLE

It is reported that during a number of European countries a speech when they discovered that the majority of the people had essayed to express their views for the American people, had failed to make any considerable amount of interest or attention as a result of regarding the speeches.
